Throughout the e-mail investigation, the majority has made a number of unsupported, inflammatory, and highly speculative allegations. The majority has repeatedly compared the investigation to Watergate, and has accused a number of past and present government officials of wrongdoing. The minority views respond to these and other allegations made in the majority's October 2000 e-mail report.

Documents and Links

- Minority Views on the White House E-mails Investigation Report