The Committee's campaign finance investigation was the most expensive congressional investigation in history, costing over $8 million. Campaign finance investigations by this Committee and other congressional committees also imposed costly burdens on federal agencies that had to respond to hundreds of congressional campaign finance inquiries. Documents and Links

- Costs of the Campaign Finance Investigation Report