

The majority's campaign finance investigation was marked by a series of unsupported charges and missteps. It also virtually ignored Republican campaign finance abuses. The minority views document the investigation's abuses, respond to the major findings in the majority's November 1998 campaign finance report, and describe some of the most serious campaign finance allegations involving Republicans. Documents and Links

- Minority Views on the Campaign Finance Investigations Report